In this session students learnt about handling peer pressure and anger. PEER means someone in your own age group. Peer pressure may lead to inferiority or superiority complex. Peer pressure is psychological pressure.

Students understood anger is a sign of helplessness. Reasons behind getting angry are frustration, irritation, jealousy, ego and show off of anger. After discussion we all concluded that a feeling of relationship will help us in not getting angry or feeling peer pressure. To overcome the above problems we must develop sensitivity and understanding in our day to day life behaviour.
